DESCRIPTION

March House is a beautiful period country house in a peaceful village setting on the edge of the Marlborough Downs, enjoying an abundance of period charm and an excellent range of accommodation.

It makes an ideal family home and at 4462 square feet, the house offers wonderful space with large, well-proportioned rooms, good ceiling heights and numerous large windows allowing in plenty of natural light.

An entrance porch leads to the welcoming dining hall which has a real charm to it with parquet flooring and woodburning stove with double doors opening out to the terrace and gardens. The elegant and comfortable sitting room, centred around the fireplace with woodburning stove, is an excellent space for entertaining and provides access through to a very spacious study or playroom, depending on the need.

The farmhouse style kitchen / breakfast room, with terracotta tile flooring and Aga, has a lovely feel to it and leads seamlessly through to the family room at the rear. A downstairs cloakroom completes the ground floor accommodation and stairs lead off the reception hall down to a very handy and sizeable cellar.

There are four bedrooms and two bathrooms on the first floor with two/three further bedrooms, a bathroom and a kitchenette on the second floor. There are two staircases taking you to each of the floors offering flexibility in the way the house can be lived in.
